FORD GOLF USA: US WOMEN'S OPEN
SKY SPORTS 2 11.00PM

The final day of the US Women's Open sees the world's top women golfers battling it out for the coveted $2.75m title. Last year it was the Australian Karrie Webb (pictured) who took the honours at the Merit Club, finishing a comfortable five shots ahead of Christie Kerr and Meg Mallon. This year the contest returns to the Pine Needles Lodge and Golf Club, where major contender Annika Sörenstam of Sweden won the title in 1996. The tournament, which began 56 years ago is the longest-running event of the LPGA Tour.
